Not just another dark, malty, supersweet ale, Arran Blonde will change the way you think of Scottish beer. Indeed, the Arran brewers have discovered hops (!), including German Hallertauer and American Cascades. The fresh hop character in this gorgeous wheat ale will blow you away, but not with excessive bitterness – Arran Blonde is beautifully balanced by the generous use of barley and wheat malts.

Arran Brewery has been earning brewing awards since its inception in the late 1990's.

Among the awards won for Arran Blonde are 'Best British Beer' at the 2003 Scottish Independent Brewers Awards (SIBA), the most prestigious brewing competition in Scotland. It also took both 'Best Bottled Beer' and 'Champion Wheat Beer' at SIBA 2002.

The picturesque Isle of Arran, just off the Scottish coast near Glasgow, is a hiker and biker's paradise, and, thanks to its location on the Gulf Stream, almost has the feel of a tropical rain forest. You'll even find palm trees dotted about the shoreline! Best of all, you'll find Arran beers at virtually every pub and shop.
