More than ten years ago, eight friends started a beer tasting club. They got together to discuss soccer, women and beer. Their interest in beer grew stronger every year – so strong, in fact, that in 2007 they decided to take up beer brewing courses and then opened Het Nest.. These friends were all born in the city of Turnhout in northern Belgium, a city known for its playing cards. And in playing cards Het Nest has found its inspiration.

Schuppenaas or Ace of Spades in English is an amber colored beer. The use of brettanomyces during secondary fermentation gives the beer a unique taste. Tomahawk and Simcoe hops give the beer a refreshingly fruity nose of citrus and grapefruit.
